At the recital on May 6 the young artist will be assisted by Mrs. George W. Tackabury, while Mrs. L. Tenney Peck will act as accompanist. The patronesses will be the members of the Morning Music Club of Honolulu. Gifford is the son of Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Gifford of Manoa.

Direct Primary
UP IN SENATE

Once more the senate is in committee of the whole this afternoon, and two important measures may be passed on before adjournment. It was tentatively agreed this morning to take up the direct primary bills, and the preferential voting measure drafted by the governor and introduced by Senator Judd, at 2 o'clock. In addition, the special committee which has had the compensation bill under consideration may report, and it was rumored that a new bill, as a substitute measure, may be offered at the time by the committee, through Senator Wirtz, who is said to have worked out an employers' liability bill differing from the one now before the senate in many respects.

HOUSE NOTES
The house this morning deferred action on the governor's veto to S. B. 82, providing for the reimbursement of H. Kishi for meals supplied to immigrants, setting it over to next Thursday, awaiting action on the subject by the senate.

The house's public utilities bill, which passed the senate, was returned to the lower branch this morning. Alterations made by the senate were referred to the judiciary committee, in which the bill originated and the house deferred action on them pending the committee's report.

DEAD MAN FOUND WITH SLASHED THROAT

Lying partially covered by a foot of loose earth, near the border of a cane field between Alea and Pearl City, the badly decomposed body of a man, now believed to have been a Porto Rican, was discovered on last Wednesday evening.

A party of Japanese from Honolulu plantation in completing their work in a neighboring field, were halted in their operations because of a powerful odor. Investigation led them to at first believe that an animal had crawled into the field and there died.

One of the more inquisitive of the little band of laborers, plunged into the thick of the cane, and caught hold of something that afterward proved to be a man's hand.

The body of a person, who gave every appearance of having lain dead for several weeks, was brought to light, after the covering of earth had been removed.

Deputy Sheriff Fernandez of Ewa was later summoned. He soon impaled a jury, which, upon visiting the scene, rendered a verdict of death through suicide.

Deputy Fernandez and his officers stated that they saw evidences of an attempt having been made to sever the windpipe, marks yet being plainly distinguishable that showed that the throat had been slashed from ear to ear.

Despite a thorough search, nothing was found in the way of a knife or other weapon.

Inquiry made this morning failed to disclose the identity of the dead man. As far as can be learned no such person has been employed or is at present missing from any of the neighboring plantations.

The condition of the remains when found is said to preclude any attempt at a positive identification.

measure, especially on the moral side. If it could be justified at all, it would be only on the theory that that is the most that can be accomplished under the circumstances. One of the main reasons given for justifying segregation is in order to prevent the evil from becoming scattered throughout the community. It has, in fact, never succeeded in accomplishing that result, but if the policy of segregation is to be adopted, the necessary corollary of keeping the evil out of the rest of the community should be made effective by passing the abatement bill as to all places outside of the designated area, so that individuals may by suit for injunction prevent the evil from being practiced near their homes. The people scattered throughout the community should not be required to rely merely on prosecuting attorneys and the police force. The theory of segregation, however, has not been able to stand the light of modern investigation and that policy is now being abandoned by one city or county after another."

KOREAN MAKES UGLY CHARGES

Alleging that Bruce H. Strong, a soldier at Lihue, is the person who cruelly assaulted him on last Sunday morning, Kim Hyung Tai, a Korean, appeared before District Magistrate Monsarrat this morning and related his version of the affair.

Strong will await indictment at the hands of the grand jury, following which he will be committed to the circuit court for trial, upon a charge of assault with a weapon.

The Korean positively identified the defendant as his assailant while on the stand and under oath. He declared that he was sitting in Aala park when approached by a party of three soldiers. One, whom he insists was Strong, requested that the Korean give up some candy. Meeting with a refusal, the Korean claims to have been struck with an empty gin bottle, the weapon being broken in the mele. The Korean was sent to the hospital, there to remain for several days.

BIG PROFIT ON MODEL BUILDING

Twelve thousand five hundred dollars of profit turned on a piece of city property in a few days more than two years is not so bad. This is what the heirs of the late Mrs. Annie S. Parke has realized on the Model building property on Fort street, besides whatever net revenue may have accrued from the property in the meantime.

By deed of March 31, William C. Parke, Annie H. Parke and Bernice Parke Walbridge conveyed to Charles M. Cooke, Ltd., the property mentioned for the consideration of $45,000. It contains an area of 4976 square feet, upon which stands the Model building, a three-story business structure, the two upper floors of which are at present occupied by the United States district court and offices connected therewith. With the property goes a 10-foot right of way in the rear from Beretania street to Chaplain lane, also the rights, easements and privileges with respect to the party wall, elevator use and means of passage between the Progress block and the Model building.

On March 16, 1911, Bruce Cartwright sold the Model building property to Mrs. Annie S. Parke for $32,500.

CHARGES STIRRED UP IN HAGEMANN CASE

Interest was at white heat among those who have followed the W. F. Hagemann murder trial when the fact that half a dozen of the most important witnesses called during the trial were yesterday called before the federal grand jury was discussed this morning. It was stated by those in a position to know that the calling of the witnesses can have but one meaning: that an indictment of the witnesses on a charge of perjury or of attorneys interested in the case on a charge of bribery is considered.

It was alleged this morning that, during the time of the trial, a man who later testified for the defense and who was said to be the right-hand man in the outlining of the case, was seen in various saloons along Hotel street with a pocket full of gold coins which he was more than willing to circulate for the entertainment of his friends. Several people interested in the case are also alleged to have substantiated the report that Privates Evans and Hays, the two star witnesses for the prosecution, made statements that they had been approached by the defense and offered pecuniary inducements to alter any testimony they intended to give so as to favor Hagemann.

The grand jury have adjourned until Monday morning and it is said by those on the inside that further witnesses from Schofield will be subpoenaed at that time.
